From Tuesday July 17. to Saturday July 21. 1716.

St. James's, July 20.

AN humble Addreſs to His Majeſty from the Lieutenant Governour and Council of Virginia having been tranſmitted hither, has been preſented to his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales, by the Right Honourable Paul Methuen, Eſq; one of His Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State.

Which Addreſs His Royal Highneſs was pleaſed to receive very graciouſly.

Madrid, July 13. On the 11th Inſtant the Cardinal del Giudice received Notice, that the King having thought fit to remove him from the Employment of Governour to the Prince, it was his Majeſty's Pleaſure he ſhould leave the Apartments allowed him in the Palace on the Account of that Employment. Accordingly he is now returned to the Houſe in this City where he lived before, which is the Duke of Monteleon's: 'Tis not known whether he is to keep ſtill his Commiſſion for treating with the Miniſters of foreign Princes, and that of Inquiſitor General. The Duke de Popoli is made the Prince's Governour. On the 29th of laſt Month the 6 Men of War ſent by the King to ſerve againſt the Turks, paſſed by Cartagena, in their Way from Cadiz to Italy. By an Expreſs from Lisbon we learn, that on the 4th Inſtant ſailed the Portugueſe Squadron of Men of War, which are appointed for the ſame Service.

Geneva, July 13. The Swiſs Cantons are at this Time aſſembled in Dyet at Frawenfeld, where the Deputies of Fribourg have made new Efforts to oblige the Cantons of Zurich and Berne, to reſtore to the leſſer Roman Catholick Cantons the Country conquered in the laſt War, and yielded by Treaty. The ſaid Deputies of Fribourg engaged thoſe of Baſil to move this Affair in the Dyet, and to intimate at the ſame Time, that in Caſe of Refuſal they would have Recourſe to the Dyet of the Empire, or even make an Alliance with ſome foreign Prince. But the Canton of Berne ſhewed great Firmneſs on this Occaſion, declaring, that they would not part with a Foot of Ground, and if the Roman Catholicks were deſirous to begin a new War, they would do well to ſay ſo plainly. 'Tis likely the Dyet will ſeparate with the ſame Spirit of Diviſion as was among them before they met, it being fomented by ſome neighbouring Princes.

Genoa, July 14. The Argyle, a Britiſh Man of War, ſailed from hence on the 5th Inſtant for Port Mahon. The Electoral Prince of Bavaria deſigning to come hither, the Republick ſent ſome Days ago 2 of their Gallies to Leghorn, to receive and bring him, and he is expected here to Morrow: A large Palace is fitted up for his Reception, and great Preparations are making for entertaining him during his Stay. On the 5th Inſtant arrived a Veſſel from Sicily laden with Corn; the Maſter reports, that the Inhabitants of the County of Modica in that Iſland, refuſing to pay the Free-Gift required by the Government, alledging that they are exempted from it by a Privilege formerly obtained from the King of Spain, the Viceroy had ſent thither 5 or 6000 Men to compel them: This had occaſioned a great Murmuring, as well there as in other Parts of Sicily, where ſeveral Churches were ſhut up, as being under an Interdict of the Court of Rome, and many Perſons were impriſoned, about 40 of which were imbarked on Gallies, in order to their being conveighed to Turin. Yeſterday came in another Ship of this Place laden with Corn from Sicily, with an Account that the Inhabitants of Modica are all in Arms to oppoſe the King's Forces, which had not yet entred the ſaid County, but were on the Borders; and that the Number of the ſaid Inhabitants armed is about 12000.

Copenhagen, July 18. On the 13th Inſtant arrived in the Sound M. de Grave with a Squadron of Men of War, and about 200 Merchant-Ships from Holland. Yeſterday the Czar arrived here unexpectedly, with 36 Gallies and about 14 Battallions of Land Forces. He came into our Road about 5 a Clock in the Afternoon, and the King went off immediately in a Barge to receive him. Their Majeſties came aſhore at the Hoſpital for Seamen, where the Czar ſtopt to view the Ovens newly built to bake Bread for his Troops. Their Majeſties entred this City in a Coach, the Czar ſitting on the Right Hand, preceeded by a Troop of Horſe-Guards, and 20 Coaches belonging to the principal Daniſh Miniſters, Generals and Admirals, and by ſome Officers on Horſeback; and followed by 3 of the King's Coaches and 3 Troops of the Horſe-Guards. During the March our Artillery was thrice diſcharged: The Streets were lined by the Burghers under Arms from the Cuſtom-houſe to the Square of Guldenlew, where moſt of the Garriſon ſtood drawn up, and from thence to the Caſtle the Street was lined on one Side by Burghers, and on the other by Soldiers, all under Arms. The Czar had no Attendants, except one Footman, who walked before the Coach their Majeſties were in, among the King's Footmen. His Czariſh Majeſty having ſupped with the King, went to lodge at the Houſe of his Ambaſſadour Prince Dolhorucki. Captain Tordenſchild, who gained the Advantage over the Swediſh Flotilla on the Coaſt of Norway, and is ſince arrived here, was to have joyned Vice-Admiral Gabel, but finding a fair Opportunity offered, he attacked the ſaid Flotilla without Orders: The King has reprimanded him for it, but becauſe the Action was performed with great Bravery, his Majeſty has promoted him to the Rank of Commadore of a Squadron.

The

The chief Particulars of the Action at Fredricks-Hall on the 5th Inſtant, are as follows. About 2 in the Morning the Swedes advancing by Skoningſoſſen, made a ſudden Attack on the Gate called the Kirckeporten and on the Borgerſchanz. They were oppoſed by the Corps de Garde and by the Piquet of the Garriſon, who maintained their Ground with great Bravery till 4 a-Clock, when the great Superiority of the Enemy (who were 3000 in Number) obliged them to retire to the Citadel. The Swedes taking Poſſeſſion of the Town, Lieutenant-Colonel Brun, who commanded in the Citadel, plyed them inceſſantly with Cannon-Balls and Bombs, which ſet the Town on Fire: The Swedes endeavoured to extinguiſh it; but the Flames ſpreading through the greateſt part of the Town, forced them to leave the Houſes, and get into the open Streets, and then to paſs the Bridge over the River, the Artillery from the Citadel doing great Execution among them. The Loſs of the Swedes, killed, wounded, and taken Priſoners, amounts to about 700. The Loſs of the Danes was inconſiderable. The Advantage gained by M. Tordenſchild was in the following Manner: He anchored the 7th of July near Stromſted, on the 8th about Noon he attacked the Flotilla of Swediſh Gallies which lay at Anchor in Dynekilden. Two of their largeſt Gallies oppoſed him at his Entrance, but in a little Time he ſunk them, and cannonaded the reſt till towards Evening, when they all ſurrendred, to the Number of 13 Gallies and 8 Tranſports.

St. James's, July 20. On the 18th His Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales took a Review of the firſt Regiment of His Majeſty's Foot-Guards in Hide-Park.
